WORKING FOR GOD

KANSAS SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS HAVE CONVENED HERE.

Opening Meeting Last Night a Grati fying Success-Pretty and Witty Remarks-Dr. Duncan Delivers an Impressive Address-Six Hundred Delegates Expected - Meeting of Superintendents

Yesterday-Delegates Here.

The Kansas State Sunday School asso clation opened its twenty-ninth annual convention at the First M. E. church of this city last night.

It was a notable gathering of Christian people and their character and zeal was a splendid indication of the Christian progress and spirit of the state.

The beautiful and spacious church was fill-d to its utmost capacity, and notwithstanding the extreme courtesy of the ushers and the hospitality of the church at least 150 persons were compelled to stand, many being unable to get within the portals of the edifice.

The building was illuminated gorgeously with a hundred incandescent electric lemps and adorned handsomely with flowers and plants.

The music was sweetly rendered by a picked band of some of the best musicians in the city directed, by Mr. W. M. Shaver, secretary of the Young Men's Christian secretary of the Young Men's Christian association of this city.

It was a scene long to be remembered to hear six hundred Christian tongues, with the rolling voice of the great organ, singing hymns of praise to the Lord.

President C. N. Queen of Fort Scott opened the meeting with devotional exercises. Rev. David Winters, D. D., pastor of the first Presbyterian church of this city, offered a touching prayer that ended in "Our Father" recited aloud by the entire congregation. tire congregation.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME. The address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Lawrence of the United Pres-byterian church of this city. Mr. Lawrence is an eloquent young gentleman and his address was both hearty and witty. He said to the delegates that they had come to the real capital of the state. Tocome to the real capital of the state. Topeka, he said, had the state capital, but Wichita has the governor and s the speaker of the house; they lived ineighbors and st night typelied the legend of the lion and the lamb by lying down in peace side by side as it were. He said the hearts and homes of Wichita were open to the delegates and that all the hospitality would cost them is the spread of a good christian influence in these homes. After a few witty remarks about the Coxey army he bid the delegates
"welcome."

school and church work there was need of ever, there is surely room for each to build more of the consciousness of God on their one separately." more of the consciousness of God on their atmosphere. He said that the school sup-erintendent too frequently forgot his school after it was over on Sunday and be urged the necessity of keeping it in view throughout the week as well. Mr. Mitchell of Kanas City, Kan., talked about the importance of the Bible in the Sunday school, instead of the "Helps." This brought forth a good deal of discussion, the sentiment being almost unanimously in having each pupil own a Bible and carrying it to school on Sunday. Suggestions were made as to the best means of encouraging this.

Mr. Finney said that he had urged the pupils of his school to have Bibles in their classes with some success.

Miss Goodell thought there was nothing like baving a personal Bible in the class, and thought it would be better for the in-dividuals to own the Bibles than to have them owned by the school.

Mr. Southerland called attention to the fact that in all the bymns very few of them devoted attention to the praise of the Bible. He asked somebody to write a the Bible. He asked somebody to write a hymn with this end in view.

Mr. Tucker of Eureka made a very fine address on the subject "The Superintendent Leading Souls to Christ."

"The Superintendent's Reward" was the subject of a very able paper by Rev. J. E. Piatt, superintendent of the Congregational Sunday schools and publishing society of Oklahoma.

It was omite an interesting meeting and It was quite an interesting meeting and the delegates were much pleased.

Minnesota Crank Desires to End Her Peculia

"To the chief of police and guardian of of civic rights, Wichita, Ks." was the superscription of a letter received yester-day by Chief Cone. The head of any other man but that of Rufus would be swelled upon being addressed with such a high sounding title. Opening the letter he read it and burst out with the remark "the poor fellow has a wheel in his head." The letter was from a Minnesota crank who says that God commanded him in a vision to slay Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease. The event, according to the schedule of events which he has fixed, will come off at high noon on the 30 instant. As The event, according to the schedule of events which he has fixed, will come of at high noon on the 20 instant. As an evidence of his sincerity he has authorized Chief Cone to purchase white flowers for the funeral and also a quantity of oil to pour upon the feet of the corpse. "Many," he says, "must be acrificed because she is trying to subvert the scale something entirely new when he says that Mrs. Lesse's tongue does not always speak the truth. Mrs. Lesse, he aligned cannot escape him because he will stead upon her like the dew of highly, for he says that the vision informed him that Frendergest is going to be an angel affect being langed. Mr. Goodyear was released from jail, where he had been put for refusing to comply with an order of the court, and he wended his way to his home, very much like as if he considered himself immigrating from the frying pan into the fire.

Both of them wanted a divorce and wanted it bad. Mrs. Goodyear asked for one because John visited places and persons of questionable reputation and character, and John crosspatitioned charging her with the Self-same patitioned charging her with the self-same patitioned charging her with the Self-same thing.

He has lived some eighteen years with Mrs. Goodyear who, it is said, was the younger sister of his first wife.

"Yes, I am the most persecuted man alive," said he to a reporter for the EAGLE last night. "They not only sent me to jail, but now they want me to live with the wife who has brought shame and disgrace upon me. I will not do it. I will divide up things and tell her she can have her choice of half and then she can go her way and I'll go mine."

John Goodyear is the proprietor of the Goodyear house, and save the accusations made against him during this trial be has afways been regarded generally as a pretty square, open-hearted, generous man. He has a good many friends who do not believe that he is a bad man. Very few pople know Mrs. Goodyear. It is strictly a family row.

INVITATION TO VISIT THE CITY SCHOOLS

While the patrons and friends of the public schools are always welcome and gladly received by the teachers and officers, it has seemed best to the superintendent to invite the public to visit them especially on Wednesday next. No special program will be prepared, but the regular, every-day workings of the schools will be shows. The exercises will be varied and altogether oral. It is hoped that the citizens will sccept the invitation. Owing to the said death of Eugene M. McCoy, of the graduating class of the High school, and the exercises incident to the funeral, it is though best not to extend the invitation to visit the High school at this time.
